International Education Month Presentations

Nov. 18, 2009

On November 18, 2009, Dr. Shufang Shi and I presented on the topic of “Education in China” during the International Education Month: Passport to the World. We are grateful for Mr. Yanchao Yang’s unreserved support by sharing posters he has.

In this set of posters, you will see China’s national flag, terra-cotta warriors in Xi’an, Shan’xi, China, and the portrait of Confucius, who was considered the first teacher in China who lived from 551BC to 479 BC. You will also see pictures of most recent developments in Shanghai and Beijing. The following pictures shows Peking Opera and Chinese martial arts.

Dr. Shi set up four poster boards to display materials related to our joint presentations.

Dr. Shi included the newspaper clipping about President Obama having a conversation with students in Shanghai during his trip to China and other eastern Asian countries. I shared pictures, and put on display the textbooks in Chinese language of different subjects for different grade levels.

Students and the Exchange Scholar from China came to our exhibition in Jacobs Lounge, Nov. 18, 2009.
