Hi Lin Lin,

I hope your semester is going well. I have been extremely busy with a lot of work but that is to be expected for my last semester of senior year.

Not that I don't want to visit you, but do I need to set up a meeting time to register for my student teaching semester? Is this something that you would prefer e-mailing to me (the registration numbers) instead of taking up your time? Whatever you suggest works just fine for me.

I also wanted to tell you that I often use the experience and knowledge gained in your class during Block I for my Block II classes and practicum. I often share with my peers information learned from your class. I learned so much in your class and it shows in my practicum setting. I feel better prepared to teach due to the fact that I had you as a professor. Thanks for imparting your knowledge and helping me become a better teacher!

Thanks,
Heather

Dear Advisees:

I trust that you had a relaxing spring break! It was never long enough.

It's my pleasure to work with you as your academic advisor. Summer and Fall 2011 Registration is approaching fast. Please come and sign up for one 20-minute session with me as soon as you can prior to registration, which starts on April 4.

Appointment with me will be scheduled from March 23 to April 1 except for March 30. On March 30, I serve as a member of the search committee and we will conduct an on-campus interview of one of our candidates. I might not be available for any appointments.

The Advisement Appointment sign-up sheets are posted on the bulletin board next to my office door. My office is in Room 1250 New Education Building. You need to come and see what time slots are available for you before you sign up on the appointment sign-up sheets. If none of the time works for your schedule, please email me and we can always work out a time that works for both of us.

Before you come for our appointment, please go to your CAPP form on MyRedDragon of SUNY Cortland and make sure you understand what courses you need to take and what courses you would like to take in summer 2011 and/or fall 2011. For many of you who have already worked out degree plans with me, you might just need the PIN number to get registered. In that case, do please email me and let me know who you are and I'll send over by email the PIN number as soon as PIN numbers are available. Of course, it is always my pleasure to talk with you and get to know you more. So please drop in when you have time.

Please take some time and come sign up for your advisement appointment. Come with your notes, questions, and positive attitudes as always.

Have a great semester. I look forward to meeting you soon. ? Lin Lin
