8) Please, if possible, give examples connected to your response in question 7 - There was never any feedback to the online responses to questions. It took forever to get back draft copies of the capstone project.

13) Please comment on what you liked most about being in an asynchronous online class? - i like the freedom to respond when at my pace. Not having to commute to campus is a definite plus.

14) Please comment on what you liked least about being part of an asynchronous online class? - Fellow students do not respond to the weeks question and response in a timely manner. This is really no surprise since they could not get to class on time or turn in other assignments as required on time as well. This makes it difficult to respond to a classmates response and this is one of the requirements of this course.

15) Comments concerning time requirements - Work load is not the issue. The work load was fair. The window was too long for students to respond to the initial question.

Additional Comments: As a student we are expected to keep to a due date and turn things in on time. Responses from professors were not as timely. I felt that when we switch from professor to professor as the project was being worked on that what I was working on was not mine any longer. it turned into pleasing the professor at the moment. Then when I had my second reader, this person had a different direction for my project. This is very frustrating after all the work and previous revisions that were made to the project. Byt the time the project was sent back from the second reader the final version is due. The timing of all of this is bad between the college spring break and when student teachers actually have spring break makes for a disconnect for the stuent.
